The Ragsdale Family YMCA is offering an exercise and social skills program for youth and teens on the autism spectrum. The program is designed to get kids active and nurture their potential while in a safe environment. The program is led by UNCG students and founded and funded by the David and Donna Griffin Foundation. Weekly activities range from games, sports, swimming, yoga, and so much more! Our goal is to empower youth to improve their physical fitness, social skills, and foster healthy habits.
